Are We Desperate?

By Samuel Grafnow

Food Army Is Confused

If you'll look up the Post Office regulations, you will find a rule that states: "No food shall be admitted into the United States except by special permission of the Postmaster General." This rule has been in effect for over 50 years. It is not open to question. It is not open to change. It is not open to discussion.

Candidate Hoey

Against Reynolds, He Will Make the Strongest Race

It was a foregone conclusion, with the support of O. K. Steger, that Hoey would face the demand for friends and political experience of the Reynolds ticket. It is being widely welcomed today, not because it means more than a chance to get rid of a腐败 Governor, but because it means a chance to get rid of a corruption Governor.
