

Set Trial Of Yandell

Will A. Yandell, Pineville merchant, is scheduled to be tried in County Recorder's Court here Thursday morning on a charge of assaulting the Rev. J. E. M. Davenport, 84-year-old retired Baptist minister. Mr. Yandell posted a $100 cash bail bond for his appearance and offered to post $500, but County Police said $100 would be sufficient.

Mr. Yandell and Mr. Davenport got into an argument, it was said, over Mr. Davenport's sale of a lot in Pineville to the town of Pineville. The town plans to erect a town hall on the lot. It was said, and Mr. Yandell had tried to buy the lot because it adjoined his store property. It was reported that the Yandell store overlaps onto the lot in question.

The altercation took place Saturday morning, said Pineville Police Chief Oliver Parr. He said it had been reported to him that a woman attempted to separate the men, but was unsuccessful.

Mr. Yandell is about 60 years old. Chief Parr brought Mr. Davenport to Charlotte for treatment of facial injuries. Mr. Davenport was taken to his home at Pineville after a physician treated his wounds, but was believed to remain quiet for a couple of days.

Byrnes Says War Taxation Ought To End With The End Of The War

WASHINGTON — War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes, endorsing a wide variety of legislation to implement demobilization plans, declared today that war taxation should end with the end of the war.

Byrnes testified before a joint session of a special Senate postwar committee and a military subcommittee, according to that in all the planning for peacetime it must be remembered that "we are only on the threshold of the invasion of Europe" and Germany's destruction is distant.

Brooklyn Shylock Is Gang War Victim

NEW YORK — (AP) — Louis (The Babe) Silvers, charged with homicide in a resurgence of gang warfare, developed an acute case of lineup laryngitis today as police sought to question him about the slaying yesterday of Jake (The Cat) Finkel outside a Brooklyn cabaret.

Capt. John C. McGowan of the Brooklyn Homicide Squad said Finkel, a huge, powerful man who operated as a small-time Shylock and bookmaker met death when he tangled with underworld characters seeking to move into control of the lucrative rackets once the domain of the late Louis (Leopie) Buchalter and his Murder, Inc. henchmen.

Silvers, who developed his mysterious throat affliction on his way to the police lineup in Manhattan and recovered on the way out, responded to questions with unintelligible guttural noises. Later he was arraigned in Brooklyn Federal Court on the homicide charge and held without bail for further hearing Thursday, June 15.

Finkel, with a bullet through his head, was found sprawled in front of the Embassy Club at 3 A. M. Sunday. A few minutes later Silvers was in custody after physicians of Beth-B Hospital notified police he had sought treatment of a scalp wound.

Urge That Travel Be Cut Down

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Office of Defense Transportation today reiterated its plea issued before the invasion that the public refrain from railroad and bus vacation travel this summer.

Col. J. Monroe Johnson, ODT Director, said increased military activity due to the invasion may bring cancellation of reservations without notice and that all transportation facilities would be heavily pressed for passenger space.
