LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(AP)—A fire-borne explosion that destroyed the family of Shirley Bryant has tossed her into a new world. The plucky 12-year-old girl, who is the sole survivor of a fire-explosion that took the lives of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bryant, and the Crystal Hill community, and her six brothers and sisters on Dec. 17, Shirley has been severely and lies swathed in bandages in a hospital in Little Rock.

Funds Raised For Girl Whose Family Died In Fire

Mr. Bryant said it is a little early to determine just what will happen to the girl following her recovery. He said that "Shirley herself will have a lot to say about it."

Practicality Of Hydrogen Weapons Additional Problem For Scientists

(Editor's Note: What blew up with an unprecedented bang at Edgewood Proving Grounds was a hydrogen bomb. What effect will it have on military planning, strategy and atomic sciences but there are questions are explored below, in the second of our articles on atomic energy.)

Practicality Of Hydrogen Weapons Additional Problem For Scientists

By ELYON C. FAY AP Military Affairs Reporter WASHINGTON (AP)—Nuclear scientists are trying now to fashion an actual and practical weapon out of a hydrogen explosive device.

Practicality Of Hydrogen Weapons Additional Problem For Scientists

As intricate as that old Model T car and its trigger was, it does require the space, weight or still more complex mechanisms or still more hydrogen explosion. Among other things, a hydrogen explosive device must contain a really deep-freeze refrigerator to maintain constant the bomb's size.
