By DICK YOUNG JR., Managing Editor. The News Charlotte News telephone survey of voters on the city limits extension indicates:

1. A surprisingly large turnout of voters when the question is decided Monday.
2. A four to one majority for extension of city limits, and
3. A stronger-than-anticipated sentiment favoring extension among voters of the area to be

Voters Will Set Limits On Monday

By JULIAN SCHEER, Charlotte News Staff Writer. Monday is V-day in Charlotte. Voters go to the polls from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. to decide whether they want to extend Charlotte's city limits by LAST 31 square miles. Results of a NEWS poll today indicates the favorable vote will be overwhelming.

However, the pros and cons of extension will rage until the final minute of balloting. Extension has been an organized drive headed by Carl McCraw pushing hard for extension. He heads a Chamber of Commerce committee which has sent out 68,000 pieces of mail and plans a telephone campaign all day Monday.

Opposition, very vocal when the extension plan was presented to the N. C. legislature in the form of a local bill authorizing the vote, has been scattered and unorganized. Extension has always been an interesting subject in Charlotte, although the last extension of city limits saw little opposition. A 1947 vote was overwhelmingly in favor of extension.

If extension sets the predicted favorable vote Monday, the city's population will be increased by 30,000. The vote is Monday, but city limits will not be extended until Dec. 31, 1959. Therefore, city services will not be available until 1960.

TAXES IN 1960. City taxes on individual property owners will not also be assessed until 1960. The city 1960 date was primarily set up to include the extended area in the 1960 federal census. The thought has been to fold Charlotte into the "upper bracket" section of the nation's most populous cities. A favorable vote would mean a jump in population to the 200,000 class.

Extension has been a constant source of discussion since the 1947 vote. The limits were extended in 1950 following that approval and immediately there was talk of the next move as Charlotte's post-war boom continued.

The conversation crystallized in April last year when the Planning Commission handed out a 60-page report on the extension possibilities. The report, a factual study requested by the City Council, noted 28 miles of perimeter area ready for full city services and that the area has since been increased to 31 square miles.

City officials have promised a special action in 1960 toward giving perimeter area residents such services as water, sewers, garbage and trash collection, police and fire protection, health services, street maintenance, street marking, street lighting, parks, and health services.

Surveys have shown that in some areas the average cost to the property owner may be only $1.50 a year in addition to taxes, while in other areas the average annual cost may be as high as $40.

The bill which passed the General Assembly authorizes the city to move into the proposed area now to get set for 1960 expansions and additions.

You are registered to vote if you have not moved out of your precinct since the last time you voted. No special registration was necessary.

QUICK FACTS ON ELECTION

taken into the city. News staffers manned telephones in the newsroom from 6 to 10 last night. They called nearly 500 persons, with these results:

Voters within the city limits: For—52, against—3; undecided—3.

Voters in the perimeter area: For—63, against—37, undecided—6.

Thirty-four city voters and 14 perimeter citizens said they either would not vote or had not decided whether to vote. A total of 129 persons said they were not registered and were not questioned further.

The News' telephone poll technique has been remarkably successful in past elections. In April, 1953, the poll predicted Philip Van Every's victory over Lonnie Side in a mayoral election. In May, 1956, Judge Hugh B. Campbell's victory over Arthur Gooden in a Superior court judgeship race, and in September, 1955, the approval of the Pearson school plan.

Last night's opinion sampling showed, at least, that the month-long furor over the extension issue has resulted in a remarkably well-informed electorate. Unlike past polls, only a handful of persons telephoned professed ignorance of the issue.

STRONG OPINIONS. The pollsters also found an unusual enthusiasm for the election and strong opinions about the question—among both city and perimeter residents.

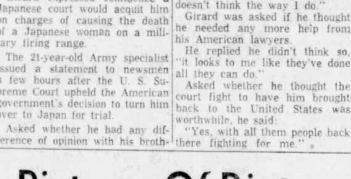

Most surprising, though, was the large number of perimeter area citizens who said they would vote in favor of the city limits extension.

They appear to be motivated by a strong yearning for city services not now available to them—chiefly water and sewer lines and bus transportation. Many also expressed a feeling of responsibility for sharing in the costs of city government and an interest in Charlotte's growth.

Sample comments from perimeter residents favoring extension: "Anyone making his livelihood in Charlotte should be willing to share in the costs." "We moved to the country because we love the 'fishbowl,' but I wouldn't ever stand in the way of progress." "I want city fire protection."

APEX BANK BANDITS

MRS. DOROTHY GIRARD is comforted by another woman, Mrs. M. P. Childers, as she sits on her porch in Ottawa, Ill., after being held in a vault for 20 minutes by three masked bandits who robbed the Apex Bank in Chicago today.

Family Is Bigger Dread For Girard

CAMP WHITTINGTON, Japan—William Girard indicated today he doesn't dread a Japanese trial as much as members of his family back home in Ottawa, Ill. Girard expressed confidence a Japanese court would acquit him on charges of causing the death of a Japanese woman on a military firing range.

The 21-year-old Army specialist issued a statement to newsmen a few hours after the U. S. Supreme Court upheld the American government's decision to turn him over to Japan for trial.

Asked whether he had any difference of opinion with his brother, Louis, in Ottawa on the jurisdictional fight waged in the case, William replied: "I don't think so."

Later he added, "My brother has never been in Japan and he doesn't think the way I do."

Girard was asked if he thought he needed any more help from his American lawyers. He replied he didn't think so. "It looks to me like they've done all they can do."

Asked whether he thought the court fight to have him brought back to the United States was worthwhile, he said: "Yes, with all them people back there fighting for me."

8 Locked In Vault By Robbers

APEX (AP)—Three armed and masked bandits, working coolly, held up the Apex branch of the Durham Bank & Trust Co. today. They locked five bank employees and three customers in the bank vault and escaped with what a bank official said was $25,000 to $30,000.

J. M. Herndon, assistant vice president in charge of the FBI office, said it was reported with some substantiation that three women were in the getaway car with the robbers.

Herndon, five other bank employees and two customers were held inside the vault and locked in as the man left. Talking through the heavy door to customers outside, Herndon gave them the address of a vacationing bank employee, Mrs. Christine Hobby, who lived nearby. She was summoned and sensed the vault in a matter of minutes.

Herndon said an accurate estimate of the amount taken would await word of officials from the Durham office.

Herndon said he saw only two men in the bank, but he believed a third man was with them, outside the building.

HOLDUP DETAILS. "I was sitting in a chair at my desk when a man with a handgun and a gas mask came up behind me and told me to put up my hands," he said. "Thinking it was some sort of joke, I went in too big a hurry to 'stick 'em up,' but I soon realized this was no joke."

The time lock on the safe was set so that it wouldn't open until about 10 or 15 minutes and I told him I couldn't open it. He replied, 'We stay here until it does open.' One time he said he bust

BROTHER KILLS BROTHER IN JAPANESE DUEL

MAEBASHI, Japan (AP)—Police said brother killed brother last night in a medieval-style duel at Amakura near Maebashi.

Officers gave this account: Kumo Kottabashi, 42, an innkeeper, fought with his unemployed brother, Kiyoshi, 22, each armed with an ancient six-foot spear.

Kiyoshi stabbed Kumo in the neck. The five-inch spearhead, mounted on a long shaft, pierced the jugular vein and Kumo bled to death.

Kiyoshi, who was jailed, told police the quarrel started when he fought his way into the Communist berating their 60-year-old mother.

Kiyoshi quoted Kiyoshi as saying: "When I intervened, my brother grabbed a spear and challenged me. I also took a spear from my brother, Kiyoshi, 22, each armed with an ancient six-foot spear."

Southerners Okay Rights Bill Date

WASHINGTON (AP)—Southern Democratic senators tentatively agreed today to permit a vote the middle of the next week on a motion to take up formally the controversial civil rights bill.

Their spokesman, Sen. Russell (D-Ga.), said he was authorized to work out details with Republican Leader Knowland, Calif., sponsor of the motion, and Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.).

Earlier Johnson told newsmen he hoped agreement could be reached by all sides for a vote either late Tuesday or early Wednesday.

20 MORE. Johnson said he thinks 20 additional senators want to speak before the question of taking up the civil rights bill can be brought to a vote in the Senate. He said he set so that it wouldn't open until about 10 or 15 minutes and I told him I couldn't open it. He replied, 'We stay here until it does open.'

Ex-G Expelled From China

HONG KONG (AP)—American Donald H. Blackwood came back today from 2 1/2 months in Red China. He told reporters his departure was "an irresponsible gesture on my part and I am sorry I made it."

Blackwood said he was being watched all the time without seeing anything, he told reporters.

Blackwood, 25, a former GI, took his South Korean wife and child with him. He said they spent most of their time in a sixth floor hotel room in Canton.

KEPT INSIDE. "They allowed my wife out occasionally to buy necessary clothing and things for the baby but I was kept inside all the time," he added.

The young American said he went to Red China "of my own free will and accord with the desire to see the country and the intention of learning more about the Chinese people."

But he said he didn't see much and what he saw didn't impress him.

NO DESIRE. "I have no desire to go back," Blackwood said.

The Communists expelled Blackwood and his family at the Macao border yesterday afternoon on grounds of illegal entry. A Macao police subinspector escorted them to Hong Kong on a ferry.

The trip to Communist China violated U. S. passport regulations. An official at the American Consulate said normal procedure calls for the consulate to mark Blackwood's passport valid for return to the United States only.

Blackwood, a former Air Force sergeant in Korea, was discharged in the Far East and sent to work as a salesman for a clothing firm in Seoul.

He and his wife and son were in Macao April 25, ostensibly as tourists. They vanished

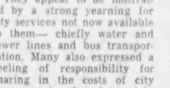

36 hours later, leaving behind a few suitcases and an unpaid hotel bill. Portuguese police, who combed the six-square-mile colony, finally reported Blackwood had paid $50 to a Chinese sampan owner to ferry the family 500 yards to Communist-held Lappa Island.

Blackwood said the family arrived at Lappa Island, only 500 yards from Macao, at midnight April 28. With a few hours the Communists took them by motorboat to a small Red naval base, where they stayed overnight. Then, he said, they were driven to Canton in American-type jeeps.

Three days before their departure, Blackwood said, the Reds took him to see some movies, parks, cultural centers and museums.

He said the Communist attitude seemed to be that since he had entered the country illegally he was not welcome. They did not invite him to come back.

Hoffa Mistrial Motion Denied

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. Dist. Judge Burnis S. Matthews today denied a motion for a mistrial in the bribery case against Midwest Teamsters Union chief James R. Hoffa.

The motion was based on the mistrial granted yesterday to co-defendant Thomas J. Fischbach, whose attorney had become ill.

Edward Bennett Hoffman, Hoffa's counsel, argued that Hoffa could not put up an adequate defense with Fischbach granted a separate trial.

Matthews said Fischbach, a Miami attorney, had intended to testify at their joint trial and seek to refute testimony by the government's key witness, John C. Cheasty.

Cheasty is the lawyer-investigator for the Senate Rackets Committee whom Hoffa and Fischbach are charged with having bribed to pass out data from committee files to Hoffa.

Hoffa's counsel said Fischbach now is refusing to testify in Hoffa's behalf and will give his version of the situation only when he comes to trial later.

Evening Prayer

Eternal God, make us conscious of the dignity and privilege of our moral responsibility. We thank Thee for freedom to choose. Help us this day, in all our choices, to choose whatever will make us more Christlike, enable our character, make us greater blessings to others. In Jesus' name. Amen.
