Local Derby Champ Ready For Biggest Race Of Life

By JOHN BORCHERT
(Special to The News)

places will receive college scholarships ranging from $4,000 down to $1,000. Sixth through ninth place finishers will receive, respectively, a set of the Encyclopedia Britannica, 16-mm movie camera and projector, Sphero power tool unit, and Zenith trans-oceanic portable radio. There are also special awards in derby car construction and design.

LOST ONE HEAT

Tony has lost only one derby heat in two years of racing—that to Val Hawkins last year, when young Hawkins coming here to grab eighth place in the national race. Tony's time records at Charlotte have shown his car to gain speed each race, a definite advantage here when a car gets past the first round.

MINOR ADJUSTMENTS

Yesterday at Derby Downs Topside, Tony's car, "Liberty Special II," needed only minor adjustments before passing inspection, thus casting another bouquet to the excellent East Ohio inspection crew of Jerry Basso of Charlotte.

One of the Derby cars was disqualified from the race this year. Derby officials discovered lead plates built into the Washington, D. C. car, a practice against the rules. The Capital City will bring its runner-up derby boy here to represent the D. C. area in the race.

Two cars were lost in shipment. One finally arrived yesterday noon, and the other was due in last night. And two boys became ill, running temperature. The other three since Tony Hampton arrived here, was crammed full of excitement. There was the luncheon served by industrial and business executives of Akron, and the presentation of official All-American Soap Box Derby wrist watches.

It was all too much for a lady member of Parliament. She denounced Miss Leigh's vacation as setting a "terrible example" for the country's young people.

From Italy, Miss Leigh shrugged off the criticism as "ill-considered and rude." But the affair has been taken up with gusto by the British press and public. The prevailing view seems to be that the dark-haired actress—the screen's Scarlett O'Hara—has a perfect right to be on the friendliest of terms with the man from whom she was divorced 17 years ago.

Later this month Miss Leigh plans to go alone to Yugoslavia. There she will be joined by her present husband, the other half of Britain's first family of the theater.

Mrs. Jean Mann, a gray-haired Laborite legislator who has been married only once in her 67 years and has five children, found the vacation business too much for her Scottish tastes.

She told a conference of social workers: "You can pack your first husband up in this what our young people tell us telling us and you can go on holiday with him now and again. You might even be able to spend weekends with the first and the middle of the week with the second. It is a terrible example for people who occupy high places in life to place before our children."

5 'On Lam' Needed As Witnesses

By G. MILTON KELLY
WASHINGTON — Federal marshals pressed their search today for five witnesses sought by the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee. Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) said the five "are on the lam."

Committee counsel Robert F. Kennedy said staff aides and the U.S. marshal's office in New York have been unable to locate any of the five, wanted as witnesses in an inquiry into New York racketeering.

Kennedy named only two of those sought: Benny "The Bug" Reid, a former Teamsters Union organizer, and Leonard Geiger, vice president of Joint Council 16, governing body of the Teamsters' 125,000 members in New York.

The committee, meanwhile, prepared to call some top international Teamsters officials, including the union's Midwest boss, James R. Hoffa—for questioning about activities in New York.

QUIZ SESSION — Deputy District Attorney William L. Ritz questions James Craig (right), former theater employee, about his testimony in the Confidential magazine libel trial in Los Angeles. Craig said he saw actress Maureen O'Hara and a man engage in torrid lovemaking in the rear row of the theater.

GOP May Give In On Jury Trial

By R. L. LIVINGSTONE
WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower sits down today with House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts, presumably to discuss moves to end the civil rights deadlock.

In advance of the White House conference, all signs pointed to GOP capitulation to Democratic insistence on the Senate civil rights bill with a modified jury trial provision.

So confident were Democrats, that tentatively scheduled House action on the bill for next Wednesday or Thursday.

House acceptance of the Senate bill with a House amendment limiting the jury trial proviso to voting rights cases only, would not end the struggle. But it would go a long way in that direction.

The bill still would have to go back to the Senate for conference with the House amendment. However, content senators will agree to this change—but to nothing more.

HICKEY TELLS

Thomas L. Hickey, a Teamsters vice president, testified yesterday that Hoffa, heir-apparent to retiring Teamsters President Dave Beck, originated the idea of forming phantom Teamsters locals to vote in the union's New York council election in 1956.

MOVIES SEEN

Hickey announced from the witness chair he is a candidate for the union's presidency, and said he thinks there will be moves to get rid of him as a union official when the Teamsters hold their convention next week.

Magazine's Trial Spotlights Actress

By JACK LEFFLER

LOS ANGELES — Confidential magazine's libel charges, has turned its defense guns on actress Maureen O'Hara in the opening stage of the magazine's effort to prove that its stories about stars were true.

MOVIE PRODUCER

The man who said he saw and told is independent movie producer James Craig. He flew in from London and testified that the story as published by Confidential was correct.

JUMP TO ATTENTION

He said he turned his flashlight on the pair and "they jumped to attention and resumed their scene."

Craig said he returned to the foyer and later the usher came back and told him: "They're at it."

Craig said he went to the rear row.

"Miss O'Hara was sitting on his lap," he related. "I told them to get up."

they must leave. They said they were ready to go anyway."

Craig said he was sure it was Miss O'Hara because he had seen her several times before in person, and that he had seen her on the screen.

Craig testified he told the incident to Michael Mourant-Smith, Confidential's European correspondent. He said the story was written for the magazine by Mourant-Smith. Craig said Mourant-Smith paid him about $200.

Miss O'Hara has denied that she had consensual relations with Mourant-Smith while he was in Hollywood. She has sued Confidential for one million dollars damages.

Mourant-Smith will be on the witness stand when the trial resumes Monday.

The state wound up its case with a surprise witness who testified that Mrs. Marjorie Meade, alleged Hollywood agent of Confidential, tried to blackmail him to keep a story out of publication.

Producer Paul Gregory said that, at the telephoned urgings of a "Miss Dee," he went to a bar to discuss a story which she told him was "scandalously injurious."

He said a woman whom he later learned was Mrs. Meade met him in the bar and told him she had a story about him, Charles Laughlin, Elsa Lancheater and Robert Mitchum.

She told him, Gregory said, that the story would "put me out of business."

Gregory testified that Mrs. Meade informed him he could "buy off the commitment to the writer for $800 to $1,000" and kept the story from being published.

Advent Of Negroes Causes Pa. Storm

LEVITTOWN, Pa. — A Negro family prepared today to move into their newly-purchased home in this all-white community of 60,000 suburbanites.

The coming of the Myers family to this planned residential section in southwestern Pennsylvania has aroused a storm and brought protests from a number of homeowners. A few nights ago, a crowd of some 500 gathered around the ramshackle structure, and rocks were hurled through the picture windows. Five persons were arrested for failure to heed police orders to move on.

The neighborhood meetings, on picket lines which formed in front of the house, in stores and on street corners, people asked one another:

"Who are we going to do?"

The new owner of the house, William J. Myers, 32, an equipment tester studying for an engineering degree, said I intend to live there.

"I bought the home and I intend to live there."

James Newell, a leader of the Levittown Betterment Association, suggested "an orderly picket line in front of the house" to a crowd of some 500 at a backyard meeting.

When the presence of a detachment of state troopers was mentioned, Newell said he would not sanction law breaking.

Later, he said, "the best thing would be for everyone to stay away, boycott 'em."

Gov. George M. Leader had dispatched the troopers in the scene. Local police and clergy also have left no doubt where they stand.

"Perhaps the answer to this question 'What are we going to do?' that gained the most currency was that given by Robert Cameron, vice chairman of the Levittown Betterment Association. He said:

"I advise everybody to go to church and ask the good Lord to help us do what's right."
