Three Young Sisters Die In Quarry Slide

Mrs. John Gurnsey, daughters Millie (left) and Virginia await word on lost girls.

Young Son Drowns

SCARBOROUGH, Maine (AP) — Sobbing, gasping, March Cole, 24, stumbled onto a beach here yesterday and told of a four hour battle with tides, winds and waves to get aid for her boat-wrecked family.

The life-jacket clad woman related they were washed from a trail 15-foot outboard boat in heavy seas.
Hours later, the young Jenkinson, Pa., housewife heard that her son, 22-month-old Jeffrey, became the only fatality of the mishap.
Her grief-stricken husband, Thomas O., 25, fought tears as he explained how those clinging to the boat tried to keep the baby's head above water.

All, including the child, had life jackets. They swam to tiny, uninhabited Stratton Island when the boat sank.
Cole Coast Guard availed itself of artificial respiration when spotted by a helicopter.
His wife's battle with the sea was across a three mile stretch of open Atlantic. She fought her way to the mainland from a point between Stratton and Eagle Islands off famed Old Orchard Beach.

She certainly must have been a powerful swimmer; one coast-guardman said, "we had enough trouble getting out to the island with our 25 horsepower boat."
Dr. Walter D. Mazacko who treated Mrs. Cole for shock and immersion, said:

"High winds and heavy tides kept nearly all the swimmers out of the water today."
Included in the Eagle Island beach picnic party were Theodore Chase, 25, of Springfield, Mass., a friend of the family, and Mrs. Cole's mother, Mrs. E. T. Manley of the fashionable Springfield suburb of Longmeadow, Mass.

The services now have announced a 100,000-man reduction in the total authorized strength of nearly 2,800,000. Some 53,000 civilian jobs also have been eliminated, with possibly more cuts to come.
The Army got on the economy bandwagon yesterday, announcing the deactivation of an additional division, the abolition of 18 anti-aircraft battalions, a 15,000-man reduction of its civilian payroll, and closing of 14 depots, plants and facilities.

It was the last of the services to spell out its moves to help bring total military expenditures within the 33 billion dollar ceiling ordered by the administration for the current fiscal year, which began July 1.

Money Belt To Tighten On Forces
By C. YATES McDANIEL
WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's armed services, which already have whacked some two billion dollars out of planned expenditures this fiscal year, now are planning for tougher times ahead.

Police Probe Youth's Death
County Police today are investigating the death of a 16-year-old boy who was pronounced dead on arrival early this morning at Memorial Hospital.
They identified the victim as Jimmy Edgar Reese of Fort Mill.

Evening Prayer
O God, of peace, who hast taught us that in returning and rest we shall be saved, in quietness and in confidence shall be our strength; By the might of thy Spirit lift us, we pray thee, to thy presence, where we may be still and know that thou art God; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

100 Work Through Rain, Dark

Mrs. John Gurnsey, daughters Millie (left) and Virginia await word on lost girls.

DIXON, Ill. (AP) — Weary rescue workers digging through tons of rain-drenched clay early today lifted the mud-caked bodies of the three little Gurnsey sisters from the bottom of an abandoned quarry.

Disappearance of the girls, Nancy, 10, Ruthe, 9, and Theresa, 8, Wednesday afternoon had touched an intensive search in this community of 20,000 in the Rock River Valley.

More than 100 workmen, manning bulldozers, steam shovels and spades, unearthed the three bodies, some 35 feet below the rim of the large cliff-like pit, shortly before 3 a. m.

The grim findings climaxed nine hours of intensive digging through clay made almost glue-like by 1 1/2 inches of rain, which had fallen throughout the afternoon and evening.

"Thank God, we found them," someone murmured.
The parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gurnsey, had kept an anxious jobless vigil during the 21-day search. But they were urged to go to their trailer home a mile away to get some rest and were not permitted to return until the girls were found.

The Gurnseys, who have five other children, were not immediately visible during the search. Delbert Long, operator of a sporting goods store, and Oscar Smith, a Dixon fireman, were among those who came upon the bodies. They were found several yards deep in the fill which had been dropped into the quarry recently.

The girls were sitting, their small hands over their faces, in a position that they might have been playing in a small creek when a large section of the cliff came sliding down from above.

Theresa was sitting between her two older sisters, as though they had sought to protect her from the avalanche of dirt.
"I'm so thankful the search is over, but how I wish we might have found them alive," said J. Fred Hofmann, Dixon police commissioner and assistant in charge of the rescue operations.

Fear that the sisters had been buried alive in the quarry was expressed by searchers last night after three pairs of shoes belonging to them were found in the quarry.

The search in the quarry, which extends for several square miles, was confined to a section about 100 feet long and about 50 feet deep, into which fill had been dumped recently by Gurnsey and other workers.

Under questioning, Hoffa acknowledged he had been wrong in his statements with New York "gangs and criminals" like Dio. He said if he were elected Teamsters president he would take action against such groups.

The accident occurred on N. C. 24 about eight miles east of here at 3 a. m. today as the Williams couple was returning home after a revival meeting in Rock Hill, S. C.

State Highway Patrolman J. L. Wilson said he had noticed the Williams car weaving across the centerline about five miles from the accident scene. He said he stopped the vehicle and cautioned Mrs. Williams to be careful if she was sleepy.

Watching Growth Enough Reward For Mother Of 17

BLUE EARTH, Minn. (AP) — Mrs. Francis Bless isn't raising her babies by the book anymore. She's depending upon experience.
The 39-year-old Blue Earth farm woman has given birth to her 17th child in 13 years, a boy.

All of the children are living and all are in good health. The lively group of 11 boys and six girls includes two sets of twins.
Mrs. Bless says she maintains a flexible schedule raising her large family, doing first things first with time taken out to handle emergencies immediately. The older ones "automatically learn how to help with the work," she says.

She admits she keeps busy but does make her own spare time when she wants it.
"Watching each personality develop," is the reward, says Mrs. Bless.
"God seems to have wanted me to have babies and that is fine with me," she said.

Compromise Ends 'Rights' Deadlock

By EDMOND LE BRETON
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is expected to pass a civil rights bill before the current session ends—first since reconstruction days—next week as a result of a bipartisan compromise apparently acceptable to President Eisenhower.

Almost two years of legislative battling topped by 17 days of party-line deadlock culminated yesterday in announcement by congressional leaders of both parties that they have agreed on a compromise.

All said they expect Congress to approve it in time to adjourn next Friday. And the Republicans said they are confident Eisenhower will sign it.

However, preliminary indications were that they will vote against the revised bill but not organize a campaign to talk it to death. The House Rules Committee which has had the bill bottled up, is expected to meet Monday or Tuesday, even if Chairman Howard Smith (D-Va.) persists in his objections, and clear the bill. House action likely will come the day after the committee acts, and Senate leaders say their branch will be only a day or so behind the House.

The compromise that broke the final deadlock preserves the position taken by Republicans, from Eisenhower down, that a judge must be free to try without a jury persons accused of violating court orders.

TO VOTE "NO"
Southerners in the Senate, who hold the powerful filibuster weapon, have not all been heard from.

CAN OPENERS DIVIDED FOR PARTED PAIR
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mrs. Joan Stocks won a default divorce decree yesterday that Stocks, 20, an industrial arts teacher, visited his mother each morning and evening on his way to and from work. She said also that he once slapped her and told her to leave. But it was he who went home to mother.

Hoffa Called Disgrace To Trade Unions

WASHINGTON (AP) — James R. Hoffa was returned to his Teamsters Union duties after being denounced by a Senate probe as a "disgrace to trade unionism" and accused of 48 acts of misconduct.

The charges against Hoffa, a Teamsters vice president, were spelled out late yesterday by Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.) of the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee as McClellan abruptly dismissed Hoffa after four days of testimony.

Hoffa flew to his Detroit headquarters last night, and joined negotiators in a labor dispute which had tied up Detroit's three major daily newspapers for six days. Several hours afterward, the strike was reported settled.

Before halting the committee session yesterday, McClellan served a new subpoena on Hoffa, saying the union boss may be called back for more questioning later. The chairman also read, in scathing tones, a statement citing specific instances of alleged misdeeds about which he said Hoffa had equivocated in his testimony.

LIKELY CANDIDATE
Hoffa is regarded as the most likely candidate to succeed Dave Williams as head of the 1 1/2 million member Teamsters organization, the nation's largest union.

Under questioning, Hoffa acknowledged he had been wrong in his statements with New York "gangs and criminals" like Dio. He said if he were elected Teamsters president he would take action against such groups.
