NEW PUZZLE ON 12-B

No Winner So NewsWords is Worth $300

The tears were shedding today are worth $50 more to you.

We're adding that much to the NewsWords jackpot this week.

Why? NO WINNER again.

That's right, we had no winner for this week's NewsWords contest.

The postal cards came pouring into Box 1886 by the carload, but no one solved the puzzle.

This week we're adding $50 to the pot, making your possible earnings $300.

And we're blushing, too. We can't give you the correct answers to last week's puzzle until Friday. NewsWords was published out of sequence last week and some other newspapers in Southeastern United States are using an identical puzzle. The answer to the puzzle published on Tuesday, July 30, will be published Friday.

We don't want inadvertently to help the people in those communities, so we'll hold last week's answer until Friday.

BUT MEANWHILE—get to work on the new NewsWords puzzle today.

It's on page 12-B.

Jailed In Killing

PORTLAND, Maine (P)—A divorced mother of two was held without bail today charged with killing her man friend with nine pistol shots in a jealous rage. Mrs. Beatrice Castelluzzi, 34, offered no plea in Municipal Court and the case was continued to Aug. 14.

'In God's Hands'

LOS ANGELES (P)—Red Skelton and his family came home today after showing his dying son the sights of Europe. The comedian told newsmen: "Now everything is in God's hands."

To Room With Ike

WASHINGTON (P)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip will stay at the White House during their Washington visit in October. Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty announced today.

Air Force Cerebral For Academy Expense

Zhukov Has Rising Star Of Power

WASHINGTON (P)—Diplomatic officials speculated today that new jobs may be in the offing for Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov.

The speculation about another Kremlin shakeup was inspired by the circumstances surrounding party boss Nikita Khrushchev's rendezvous in Romania last Thursday and Friday with Yugoslav President Tito.

Bulganin missed those talks—believed to have dealt with prime satellite political topics—and also was omitted from the list of officials joining Khrushchev in a scheduled visit this week to East Germany.

THE GUESSES

Speculating on new Kremlin moves is an uncertain business at best, diplomatic officials conceded, but they hazarded guesses that:

1. Bulganin, noticeably shrinking in prominence since Khrushchev thwarted an attack on his leadership last June, might be kicked upstairs to the presidency. This powersite post now is held by the aging Klement Voroshilov.
2. Zhukov, President Eisenhower's World War II comrade in arms, might succeed Bulganin as premier, giving Khrushchev a chance to cash in on Zhukov's high personal popularity with the Russian people and making official a general belief that Zhukov now rates second only to Khrushchev in Russian power.

But there has been speculation abroad that the premiership might go instead to Anastas Mikoyan, the deputy premier and economic expert named to accompany Khrushchev to East Germany.

The State Department yesterday declined comment on such speculation.

BULGANIN'S ACTION

Bulganin is widely reported to have sided with deposed Soviet leaders Georgi Malenkov and V. M. Molotov during the fateful Central Committee struggle last June 22-23. Ever since, he has taken a conspicuous back seat.

Zhukov, on the other hand, reportedly helped Khrushchev win the struggle for power, and apparently has gained stature since.

Soviet spokesmen in East Berlin denied Bulganin was staying home from East Germany because of illness. They said Mikoyan was going along because economic matters would be discussed and he is an economic expert. But in denying that Bulganin was ill, the spokesmen neither confirmed nor denied that he was on the sick list politically.

Moscow radio said Bulganin, along with Khrushchev, Zhukov and other Soviet leaders, attended a reception given yesterday by a visiting Syrian delegation. He also was present with them at a World Youth Festival party in the Kremlin last night.

Attack On Horsey People Defended

LONDON (P)—Lord Altrincham, whose weekend attack on the royal court stunned Britain, found a friend today in the league against cruel sports—the people who side with the foxes against the aristocratic hunting set.

"We congratulate Lord Altrincham on his outspoken and forthright comments on the tweedy nature of the medicocracies who surround the present Queen," said the league's executive committee.

The league frequently has criticized the "upper classes" for their fox hunting habits and indulgence in blood sports. It has also admonished the royal family for what it says is its support of such goings-on.

Referring to Lord Altrincham's suggestions that the Queen "move with the times" by getting a whole new set of counters, the league said: "He has said something which has required to be said for a long time and is to be congratulated on his courage. It is high time that horse, tweedy notions to which he alludes ceased to exercise influences they have on the public life and social life of this country which is no longer the private perquisite of the hunting, fishing and shooting set."

Lord Altrincham, 33-year-old editor of the National and English Review, was flooded with letters at his London home about his article criticizing the Queen's speechmaking, interests and upbringing and those around her.

50-50 SPLIT

"So far it seems 50-50 for me and against," he said as he plodded through the pile of mail.

Lord Altrincham told newsmen: "I have not finished with my comments on the monarchy. I want to develop the subject still more."

"Monarchy that tries to put itself above criticism will inevitably fall. Our monarch is in grave danger, and I am utterly convinced that I am right in doing all I can to save it."

Moralists Set Bomb Site Goal

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (P)—Demonstrators against nuclear tests say they'll try to enter the heavily guarded Nevada test site today on the 12th anniversary of the atomic bomb.

Members of the Committee for Nonviolent Action Against Nuclear Weapons were in meditation early today. Their spokesmen said they will begin an early morning "prayer vigil" outside the gate to Camp Mercury, the Atomic Energy Commission's test organization headquarters.

Lawrence Scott, 48, Chicago, team coordinator, said the demonstrators fully expect to be arrested, "but will stop when the arresting authority orders us to halt."

Millions Slashed From Money Bill

WASHINGTON (P)—The House Appropriations Committee slashed $279,158,380 from a supplemental money bill today and told the Air Force not to make its new academy "a monument to governmental extravagance."

The committee cut $832,000 from the $29,169,000 requested for construction of the new Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs, Colo. It expressed dissatisfaction over "the evident lack of concern for cost factors."

Some contracts have been let at costs as much as three times original estimates, it complained.

For military construction, the committee recommended $1,521,500,000 of the $1,784,500,000 requested. It complained of a "lack of coordination and agreement on objectives between the office of the secretary of defense and the three services" in the family housing field.

The committee approved $2,410,000 of the $3,575,000 the Army requested for administration of the Ryukyu Islands but rejected the entire $2,000,000 sought for a new electric power plant for the islands. It said the islands now are self-sufficient in power from the output of the existing generating plant.

It approved $1,581,500,337 of the $1,809,738,367 President Eisenhower had requested for miscellaneous programs, mainly for military construction.

Included was $10,716,000 for Seymour Johnson Air Force Base at Goldsboro, N.C.

In South Carolina, Donaldson AFB is to get $5,367,000, Myrtle Beach AFB $1,960,000, and Shaw AFB $2,900,000.

The Parris Island Marine Recruit Depot is to get $1,766,000, Beaufort is to get $81,000, the Herford Sealplane Facility in North Carolina $8,540,000, the Beaufort Auxiliary Air Station in North Carolina $6,563,000.

Included in the total approved was 12 1/2 millions of the 35 million requested for a new Washington airport at nearby Burke, Va., a project fought bitterly by both Maryland and Virginia senators.

Platypus Waddles Out On Lover

NEW YORK (P)—Penelope the platypus has waddled out on her husband Cecil in a lift over his duckhilling and cooing.

Penelope wasn't lovelick; she was just sick of love. So she packed up and pulled out of the platypusery at the Bronx Zoo.

Keepers are combing ponds in the zoo for the rare Australian mammal with the duckbill, web-foot and broad tail. Penelope and Cecil are the only platypuses living outside Australia.

The lovers' quarrel started about a month ago. Cecil began dragging Penelope about their pool. She didn't cotton to his ways of wooing. The two were separated.

But Cecil found a way of wiggling through to Penelope's sleeping quarters in a mud bank.

In desperation, Penelope promptly performed the seemingly impossible. She squeezed under a heavy wire mesh screen and escaped.

Mrs. Eisenhower Undergoes Surgery

WASHINGTON (P)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower underwent an operation today for a "benign" condition. The White House said the operation was "not serious."

The First Lady, 60, was reported to be in "good condition following surgery."

The operation was performed at Walter Reed Hospital by an Army gynecologist, Dr. Humbert L. Tiva.

Wife No. 2 To 'Sponsor' Wife No. 3

WALTHAM, Mass. (P)—A Japanese widow of a civilian employee of the Army was reunited with her two children today after flying from Okinawa to New York.

A spokesman for the Boston Daily Herald said Mrs. Edith Taylor, who has been caring for the children, and Jean Cole, a Daily Record reporter.

They were accompanied, the spokesman said, by Mrs. Edith Taylor, who has been caring for the children, and Jean Cole, a Daily Record reporter.

MYSTERY ELEMENT

Earlier there had been an element of mystery as to the whereabouts of the women and children when they failed to arrive in Waltham as scheduled.

Mrs. Aiko Taylor is the widow of Karl Taylor, formerly of Waltham. Taylor married Aiko after his divorce from Edith.

Edith and the children, Maria, 6, and Helen, 4, met Aiko when she landed at New York airport last night.

The young daughters of Aiko Taylor—who was Taylor's third wife—have been staying for months in Waltham at the home of Mrs. Edith Taylor.

Mrs. Edith Taylor was allowed to enter on a special emergency basis as a parolee under Mrs. Edith Taylor's sponsorship, pending action on a special bill pending in Congress.

"We've exchanged letters and pictures," said the second Mrs. Taylor. "She calls me 'Auntie' and I call her 'Niece.' It's wonderful to meet her after all these months."

WRONG RIDE

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. (P)—Bradley Caldwell, 21, of Heniker, N.H., tumbled a ride from the wrong man yesterday when he escaped from a work detail at county jail. He was picked up by Foster F. Corliss and given a ride—back to jail. Corliss, a state police sergeant, drives an unmarked cruising car.

GOP Conference

Knowland Predicts Rights Bill Change

WASHINGTON (P)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) predicted after a White House conference with President Eisenhower today that Congress will change the Senate's civil rights bill before passing it finally.

Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, told reporters the "general feeling is that the bill is not in satisfactory form at the present time."

House Republican Leader Martin of Massachusetts, speaking with newsmen separately after GOP congressional leaders had held a weekly conference with Eisenhower, said of the civil rights bill:

"It is unacceptable to the President in the form it is now in. He intimated strongly that it didn't meet what he is seeking to obtain, the right of all people to vote."

NO STATEMENT

Asked if Eisenhower had said he would veto the bill in its present form, Martin said the President made no such statement but "it might well be vetoed unless it is materially changed."

Martin said Republicans in the House "will fight the Senate bill as it now is and hope for a reasonable compromise in conference."

The Senate reduced the House passed bill to what is primarily a right-to-vote measure. It also provided for jury trials in all criminal contempt cases, an amendment which has drawn vigorous fire from the administration.

By GUSTAV SVENSSON

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (P)—This is the story of Freckles with the tilian hair, who used to be told that she got her tan through a tanning machine.

"Some of them are too big to have gone through a sieve though," said a Swedish dermatologist who had the notion of counting a total of 21,719 freckles, excepting Bikini areas.

"Statistics," he said, "are scant but it looks like a world record. Anyhow I doubt if so many freckles were ever combined with such beauty."

Harriet (Freckles) Asp is a slender, long-legged art student who hates freckles. Chances are she will make color-movie viewers love them.

150 PICTURES

The photographer who first spotted Freckles made 150 pictures of her in two days. It took Sweden's biggest movie makers, the SF Corp., no more than five minutes to give her a screen test. Color magazines in Sweden and abroad are getting Freckles-minded at an astounding rate.

Most of her 23 years, she lived under the impact of her brilliant color.

"When I met my first boy friend," said Harriet, "I turned the inside of my arms towards him so he wouldn't see all those freckles."

"I scrubbed them with scouring powder. I wanted to peel myself like a potato. Sometimes I wished I were dead."

SCRATCHED OFF

"I scratched off some of the larger ones on my nose. I hoped they would be gone when the scratches healed. But there they were again."

"I thought I might tan myself in the sun until I became one big freckle. But it only added thousands of new freckles and gave them all a darker shade."

"I prayed that a miracle would rid me of my freckles. I even thought of secluding myself from the outside world. I wanted to become a nun."

She's still not happy about them.
