This Is Type Of Balloon Satellite Fired Into Space

Army Calls Off Sky Search For Balloon-Bearing Rocket

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Army early today called off a sky search for the mysteriously missing balloon satellite it launched here last night. Camera tracking stations were ordered to cease search for the satellite at 1 a.m. (EST) today and a half hour after the apparently successful launching.

Dr. Jack Froehlich, head of the launching team of scientists, said at a 9:30 a.m. news conference that his team had been unable to determine precisely what went wrong, but there had been some difficulties with the upper stages of the Jupiter-C launching rocket and the attempt to put a 12-foot diameter sphere into orbit had been "less than successful."

Froehlich said the satellite vehicle was tracked by radar for seven or eight minutes after the 10:21 p.m. launching last night.

"We cannot say anything about what happened because we do not have the necessary information," Froehlich said.

"Our tracking data shows that the Redstone first stage went to the right position at the right time and the right velocity. The propulsion and booster system and guidance were functioning normally."

NO CONCLUSION

Froehlich said that any conclusion at this point as to what happened would be entirely unwarranted.

He conceded that the satellite bearing missile might have burned up in the atmosphere or might have dropped into the ocean. He discounted the likelihood of any other lands, scientific points in many lands, scientific space program still has to complete — the lunar probes and one more scientific satellite.

It was a disheartening end to an ambitious project for hurling into an 18,000-m.p.h. orbit around the earth an object which would be visible to the unaided human eye at distances up to 1,500 miles.

New Holdup Arrest Made

GASTONIA (AP) — Police today arrested a 26-year-old Gastonia cab driver on a charge of aiding and abetting the $6,839 payroll robbery here last week.

The arrest came just one day after Albert Ledford, 23, of Clover, S. C., turned himself in at the county jail here and admitted he was the gunman who walked into the mill office last Wednesday and took the payroll.

Police identified the cab driver as Olin Price. He was picked up at his home in Bestwood this morning.

PRICE DROVE TO SAVANNAH

Price, police said, drove Ledford to Savannah, Ga., Saturday night.

Gastonia Detective Capt. R. H. Smith said Price admitted he had been approached by Ledford a week prior to the holdup and invited to participate. He said he turned down the proposal offered by Ledford.

Price said he received a call shortly before dark Saturday night to pick up a fare at Akers Center, a shopping center here on Franklin Ave. He answered the call and found Ledford waiting.

Smith quoted Price as saying Ledford first asked to go to the Charlotte Airport, then changed his mind and asked to be driven to Savannah.

Price said he complied with Ledford's request and was paid $63 for the trip, plus an outright gift of $100.

Price and Ledford had known each other for some time, police said.

Meanwhile, a search by Gastonia police for the stolen money turned up little yesterday. Officials said they would continue to search for the money.

SC Judge Faces New Charge With Shooting Victim Dying

FLORENCE, S. C. (AP) — Funeral director Rudolph Hursley of Chesterfield was near death today from a bullet wound which police say was inflicted two weeks ago by ousted Probate Judge W. E. Redfearn of Chesterfield County.

The Rev. R. N. Wells of St. Paul Methodist Church at Chesterfield, where Hursley was a communicant, said the 56-year-old funeral director was in a coma when he left the bedside at 2 a.m.

He said doctors have given up hope that they can save Hursley and have told him that any further help "must come from above."

Judge Redfearn has been held at the county jail at Chesterfield since surrendering to the sheriff's office after the shooting. He has been held on an open charge while Hursley's condition saw-sawed from fair to what doctors now describe as hopeless.

ONE BULLET

Hursley was shot once in the stomach with a .25 caliber pistol. The bullet punctured his intestines nine times.

The shooting occurred at Hursley's Chesterfield funeral home.

Both Parties Claim Other Camp's Split

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

President Eisenhower returned to Washington today from his cross-country belaboring of the Democrats while opposition party leaders shouted "demagoguery" after him and glibbed that Republicans are split.

Eisenhower seemed pleased with his six-day, 5,300-mile effort to steam up the Republican congressional campaign. When his plane landed after a flight from Chicago, he told GOP leaders "I didn't run into any pessimism or apathy."

Adlai Stevenson, the 1956 Democratic presidential nominee, asserted that Eisenhower had joined Vice President Nixon "in a desperate, intolerable, demagoguery type of campaign."

And former Democratic President Harry S. Truman hooted at Eisenhower's talk of the Democrats as badly split.

"The only split I know of is the Republican Party," Truman said, adding that the split is between "Eisenhower Republicans and old line economic royalists."

MORE LICKS

Truman talked with reporters in New York. He was bouncing off to Boston to get in some more campaign licks there.

Vice President Nixon, campaigning in New York for GOP candidates, hit the theme of a Democratic split indirectly. He challenged Stevenson and other northern Democrats to get such southern Democrats as Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas, Marvin Griffin of Georgia and J. Lindsay Almond of Virginia in line behind the Supreme Court's school integration decision.

Nixon pledged the Republicans will broaden the field of civil rights.

In Washington, Secretary of Agriculture Benson hit at "left wing" Democrats who he said want to socialize agriculture. And he told a news conference that Truman had knocked corn prices down 10 cents in a "backed up years talk" about the prospects of declining farm prices if the Republicans win the election.

Truman carried on his battle for a Republican Congress Wednesday night in Chicago with a renewed blast at "radical" Democrats and Democratic economic policies.

Eisenhower's repeated use of the word "demagoguery" during his tour brought heated criticism from Stevenson, Eisenhower's Democratic presidential opponent in 1952 and 1956.

The old Nixon has been joined by the new Ike—or a new speech writer—in a desperate, intolerable demagoguery type of campaign, Stevenson told a meeting of Democratic precinct chiefs in Chicago.

RADICAL TAG

Joining Eisenhower in praise of administration economic policies, Nixon told New England audiences that radical Democrats will tour Congress if GOP Senate and House candidates are defeated in the North and West.

In his earlier campaign in Providence, R.I., Nixon said the Eisenhower administration has managed to curb "the runaway inflation it inherited from the Democratic party."

In New York former President Harry S. Truman voiced disagreement with Democratic National Chairman Paul Butler on the issue of Southern Democrats who oppose the party's stand on civil rights.

Truman, who winds up his current campaign tour in Boston today, said he is not ready to give out of the Democratic party. "I want all the people in the Democratic party."

Cost Of Living Static; Factory Wages On Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reported today that living costs after a steady rise of 1.5 percent in September, are flat in October. At the same time, earnings of factory workers rose to a record level.

It was the second straight month that living costs, after a steady two-year climb, failed to rise. In August there was a slight decline.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the living cost index was unchanged in September from the August level of 127.7 per cent of the 1947-49 base period.

About 900,000 workers in the retail industry will get a one-cent-an-hour wage boost effective Nov. 1 as a living cost adjustment based on the index compared with what it was six months ago.

Factory worker earnings, after deducting Federal income and social security taxes, rose to $7.25 a week in September for the worker with three dependents, and to $9.80 for the single worker. Both spendable earnings figures represented record highs. They were both about 65 cents above August levels and about $1.80 per week above the figures for September last year.

The bureau said factory worker buying power has been increasing steadily from a low point last April because of gradually longer working hours, higher hourly earnings and comparatively steady price levels.

Evan Clague, Labor Department statistics commissioner, said that the gain in spendable earnings promise to increase national consumption and thus buoy economic recovery.

POPE'S CROWN READIED FOR NEW WEARER

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The richly jeweled triple crown of the popes has been cleaned and polished for the coronation of its next wearer.

Vatican sources said the beehive-shaped crown was taken yesterday to Rome goldsmith, who worked in the presence of two priests. It was returned to the Vatican a few hours later.

The tiara is the most precious of the three papal crowns in the Vatican. It was made for the coronation of Pope Pius IX in 1846.

Weighing 2 pounds and 10 ounces, the golden headgear is topped by a diamond of lapis lazuli and a sapphire cross. Its value is estimated at about $11,000.

The Vatican City's 3,000 workers have received the usual monthly bonus paid after the death of a pope. It rewards them for the extra work during the election conclave and the changeover in administration.

Sometimes the new pope also pays a bonus. In 1939, the staff got a month's extra pay after the death of Pius XI and a half month's when Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli became Pius XII.

Eight-Legged Pet Joins Fraternity

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — King came to the United States in a crate of bananas. Now he's a member of the Delta Upsilon fraternity at Kansas State College.

King is a tarantula about six inches across. He (or it, since nobody's figured the sex) can jump 9 to 10 feet in the air when aroused.

Bill Gordon, a member of the fraternity, owns him and keeps the tarantula in his room.

"The overgrown spider isn't poisonous. But its bite is no laughing matter."

Stays Outside Fuss New Rally Site Okay By Graham

(Other Graham stories on 3A, 15A)

Dr. Billy Graham has no objections to the moving of his Columbia, S. C., rally from nearby Ft. Jackson.

The steering committee for the one-day rally, after a two-hour meeting in Columbia Wednesday night, announced the change in an attempt to sidestep opposition voiced by Gov. George Bell Timmerman Jr.

The governor had said the evangelist's use of the State House grounds would be a "violation of the separation of church and state."

"I certainly would not want to be a party to breaking any state laws," Timmerman said.

"I left all the arrangements in the hands of the ministers of Columbia. If this is what they want, this is all right with me."

"This will give me a double opportunity. I have often been asked to come to Ft. Jackson, so I will now have an opportunity to speak to both the soldiers and the community."

Gov. Timmerman had said he was leaving it up to the evangelist to decide whether he would trespass upon state property. And the governor denied that permission had been granted to use the grounds, although the Columbia rally committee had secured permission through normal channels.

Timmerman maintained that to hold the rally at the State House grounds would be "without legal authorization and a violation of both the state and federal law."

He said the church-state concept "is a well known distinguishing feature of our system of government and is one of the recognized essentials of religious freedom."

"In apparent defiance of this well-known principle of law, an integrated Army detachment has erected Army property in front of the approach to the south steps of the State House in preparation for the Graham rally."

Soldiers from Ft. Jackson worked Tuesday on a temporary stand when from Graham was to have preached.

In his earlier statement, Timmerman charged that "as a well-known evangelist and naive Southerner," his (Graham's) endorsement of racial mixing has done much harm and his presence here on the State House property would be misunderstood as approval of that endorsement."

Tom McMahon, religion reporter for the Columbia State and chairman of the Columbia rally, said of the change of location: "We wanted to lift it out of the realm of controversy."

An invitation to use facilities on the Ft. Jackson reservation was extended by Brig. Gen. Christian Clarke, commander of the training center.

It was in Columbia that Dr. Graham in 1950, held his first great outdoor rally — 42,000 persons jamming into Carolina Stadium to conclude a three-week crusade, during which 12,000 persons made decisions for Christ.

In his earlier statement, Timmerman charged that "as a well-known evangelist and naive Southerner," his (Graham's) endorsement of racial mixing has done much harm and his presence here on the State House property would be misunderstood as approval of that endorsement."

Gunmen Rob Branch Bank

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Two masked gunmen robbed the Leechmere Branch of the Middlesex County National Bank today, escaping with an estimate of $50,000 to $100,000 loot.

In their hurry to escape the robbers dropped one money bag containing about $4,000 when one of the men collided with a woman patient entering the bank.

The loot estimate was made by a bank employee who preferred to be anonymous.

The two robbers walked into the bank about 8:20 a.m., after grabbing the bank custodian as he swept the sidewalk. They hid inside and surprised employees as they arrived.

The custodian and two other bank employees were slugged by the robbers, who bound them with cloth ties along with four other bank workers.

SCAVENGERS TAKE SHIRT FROM COMIC

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Comedian Red Skelton lost his shirt here Wednesday to two scavenger hunters, on a worldwide scavenger hunt.

Count Abel Armand, 38, a Brussels investment banker, and Count Marc d'Outremont, 31, a civil engineer employed in the Sahara oil fields, have dozens of many stunts specified in their bet with Dino Vastapane, a European wine merchant.

Allowed only three failures, Wednesday they faced their third. They were unable to obtain an Alcatraz prison uniform.

A newsman suggested: "Wouldn't the shirt of Red Skelton's back do?" Everyone trooped over to Skelton's hotel room.
