Brave Fox Planning To Shoot Film In Cuba

By EMERY WISTER
(Charlotte News Amusement Editor)

NEWS WIRE: Look out for more shooting in Cuba. Twentieth Century-Fox may make a movie there.

Fox bigwigs, undisturbed over the overthrow of the Batista government, says plans to film a story from the novel "No House Limit" are unchanged.

Dick Powell, an old hand at dodging bullets in Westerns, will produce and direct the picture to be called "Casino." But there's a joker in the deck. The State Dept., already under fire for its handling of Americans in Cuba, may keep cameras out and change location site to Acapulco, Mex., Rio de Janeiro or Tangier.

Cameras may roll the last of February. Robert Wagner could be the star.

ON THE BEAT: Betty Johnson is mapping a do-it-yourself campaign to sell her records. She's taking a collapsible booth on her tour of State Fairs this year so she can meet her public and hawk her records. . . Saluting the space age, Warner Bros. has a new record out called "Countdown." Conductor of the orchestra: Sonny Moon. . . . Seems the famed Tom Dooley wasn't named Dooley at all but Dula. He was acquitted, but the acquittal came 90 years after he had been hanged. And the hit record had its political repercussions. Just before the November elections the office of Clark County (Las Vegas) sheriff was flooded with calls from persons wanting to know if the guest list included a fellow named Dooley!

Walt Disney, ever on the prowl for movie ideas for all ages, will film "Swiss Family Robinson" this year, cameras to operate from locations all over the world. The novel was last filmed in 1940. . . Hollywood may be making fewer movies but Tony Curtis is busier than ever. He'll do five films in seven months. . . . First Smell-O-Vision picture will be a 20-minute cartoon, "The Bloodhound That Couldn't Smell," with 40 assorted odors and aromas wafting over the theaters.

In hot Singapore, power rates for theaters were tripled. So theaters turned off air conditioning and complaining customers are sweating it out. . . Jack Lemmon is writing the tunes for a new Broadway show "On the House." For the record, it's a musical version of the hit play "Room Service." . . . Marlon Brando is making certain his debut as a director will be a success. Everyone in "One Eyed Jacks" will die except him.

Pledge Hits $545,000

The 107 churches of the Charlotte Methodist District have pledged $545,000 to the $3 million Christian Higher Education fund of the Western North Carolina Methodist Conference.

Meeting in annual session yesterday at Duncan Memorial Methodist Church, the delegates designated next month as a period of dedication, and March as evangelism month.

Among the reports given were those showing two new churches organized in the district during the past seven months, and a total district membership of 35,506 persons.

Dr. Walter J. Miller, district superintendent, presided at the session.

Taxpaying Rush Seen This Month

A spurt in payments of city taxes is expected during the last half of this month.

Payments on 1958 taxes are made at par this month but after Feb. 1 there will be a penalty of 1 per cent.

A total of $115,967.43 was paid on 1958 taxes last week, pushing these collections to $7,340,-684.05, which represent 85.21 per cent of the year's levy.

At the same time last year collections totaled $6,749,052.53 or 85.16 per cent of the 1957 levy.

Dinner Slated For Visitors

An industrialist and an educator will be honored at a dinner Jan. 26 at the Charlotte City Club. They are J. Spencer Love, chairman of the board of Burlington Industries Inc., and William C. Friday, president of the University of North Carolina.

Hosts for the 6:30 p.m. event, at which Mr. Love will be the speaker, are directors of the Business Foundation of North Carolina from the Charlotte area.

Sponsors of the dinner are Carl G. McCraw, president, First Union National Bank of North Carolina; Addison H. Reese, president, American Commercial Bank; and Joseph H. Robinson, president, Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. of Charlotte.

The business foundation has as its mission to support assistance to teaching, research and scholarship projects in the university's School of Business Administration.

Ministers Hear Guest Speaker

Europeans consider the American concept of the world as divided into East and West outdated, according to Dr. James L. McCord, president-elect of Princeton Seminary.

He spoke to members of the Charlotte - Mecklenburg Christian Ministers' Association yesterday during installation ceremonies for the Rev. J. F. Wertz of St. Pauls Baptist Church, first Negro to ever hold the post.

Mr. Wertz called upon "every responsible Christian leader to face up to his obligation."

Dr. Lawrence I. Stell, retiring president of the Association, announced that $3,500 has been made available by the Billy Graham Charlotte Crusade Executive Committee for a preaching mission here. The Rev. Gordon Weekley, chairman of the Crusade Follow-up Committee, will head the effort.

Poems, Jazz Are Blended At Queens

A standing-room only audience cheered a 40-minute jazz-poetry concert last night at Queens College.

One of the favorites of the student-dominated crowd was Queens Professor Charles O. Hadley's "Lonesome Boy Blues" reading: "Nobody is a long, long time . . . Lonesome is a bad place to get crowded into all by yo' se'f . . . like ridin' a blinded white house. . . ."

Providing the jazz was Loonis McGlohon's quintet, a piano, flute and vibraharp combination that served as a backdrop for the flowing words.

Other readings of poems by Ron Levin, Linda Reed, Harriet Houston and W. H. Auden were presented by Charleen Swansea Whisnant, Alan Ingram and Dougald Monroe.

'YOUNG MAN' NOMINATIONS STILL OPEN

Nominations for the Jaycee "Young Man of the Year" in Charlotte close Thursday.

Anybody can put in a nomination by securing a blank at the Jaycee office. Entries do not have to be Junior Chamber of Commerce members.

The list will be cut to the "10 Outstanding Young Men of the Year," and one of the 10 will be named at the Founders Day ball Jan. 24 as "Young Man of the Year."

Author Plans To Autograph Books Here

NBC correspondent Irving R. Levine will be in Belk's book department Friday from 2 p.m. to 3 o'clock to autograph "Mainstreet USSR," a book he recently wrote, book department manager Richard Hicks said today.

Coffee will be served.

Mr. Levine will also speak Friday at a meeting of the Charlotte Executives Club.

As a correspondent for NBC, Mr. Levine spent a number of years in Russia.
